The steamship Oscar II., bearing Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the arctic explorer, is scheduled to arrive in New York on Sept. 21. While the city at large has as yet planned no public celebration in his honor, a banquet has been arranged which will be attended not only by his friends, but many scientists and other public men. His neighbors in Brooklyn, will celebrate his return and have named committees to receive and entertain him. Cook and the little vessel, the John R. Bradley, which took him to Etah will be in the Hudson-Putnam river parade, and a public reception in Cook's honor probably will be arranged during the historic celebration. The accompanying pictures of Cook are among the first to be received in America since his triumphant return from the pole. The group picture shows the arctic prince of Denmark greeting Dr. Cook when he went ashore at Copenhagen. The explorer then wore a rough suit of clothes and an old cap purchased

DR. COOK IS NOT A FAKER SAYS EXPERT NAVAL OFFICER

(Special from United Press.)
Washington, Sept. 17.—Dr. Cook a faker? This question has aroused far more discussion in Washington than the question "Is the new tariff law a revision downward?"
Commander Peary's fellow-officers generally deprecate his attack upon the Brooklyn explorer. Under service regulations, naval officers are barred from discussing the merits of the controversy for publication, but many of them have contended privately that nothing Dr. Cook has said or written about his exploit warrants the charge that he is faking.
Among those who have examined critically all of Dr. Cook's statements thus far published is a distinguished officer of the navy, now stationed here, and who is recognized as one of the foremost astronomers in the country. In his opinion, it would be preposterous for anyone with even an inkling of scientific knowledge to hope to triumph in such a deceit as has been ascribed to Dr. Cook.
Discussing Dr. Cook's claims to-day, this officer said:
"Not only must the claimant for the honor of first reaching the Pole submit to the scientists of the world his record of daily observations—that is, latitude, weather conditions, etc.—but he must also be prepared to submit every scrap of paper which contains his calculations. Dr. Cook is quoted as stating that he has this very evidence. If that is true, he knows full well the ordeal to which his claims will be subjected—and that, to my mind, is sufficient indication that he is not a faker. I regard it as practically impossible for any man to 'fake' a record which would be accepted by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, for instance, or by any body of reputable scientists."
"Prof. John N. Stockwell, an eminent astronomer, has been widely quoted as of the belief that Dr. Cook's own story shows at least one glaring discrepancy. He refers to Cook's statement that the night of April 7 was made remarkable by the twinkling of the sun at midnight over the northern ice, and declares that in the latitude in which Cook claimed to have been at that time, the sun was visible for eight or ten days previously."
"By careful figuring, Prof. Stockwell goes on to show that if the midnight sun was first visible on April 7, Cook must have at that time reached only latitude 82 degrees, 5 minutes, instead of 88 degrees, 38 minutes—a difference amounting to 316 miles."
"But Prof. Stockwell has, to my mind, overlooked one very simple fact which might account for the truth of Cook's words that he first saw the sun on April 7. Instead of March 31, or April 1, and that the weather conditions in the Arctic Circle, Dr. Cook, in his narrative, speaks of cloudy weather. It is very possible that he could not have seen the sun any earlier simply because it was too cloudy."
"I also notice that some amateur astronomers have been laying stress on the fact that according to Cook's own story that on April 21, we had reached 82 degrees, 55 minutes, 46 seconds. Objection is made to this because it is so precise. It is claimed that the portable sextant which Cook carried could not have measured this so carefully."
"In answer to which, it may be said that the instrument which Cook carried, provided Mr. Bradley's statement that he paid for the finest obtainable instruments, is true, undoubtedly measured up to within ten minutes. But, knowing the coefficient of variation to be expected in his instrument, undoubtedly Dr. Cook, in calculating his latitude, was careful to include it,

ETRURIA ARRIVES COUNT CASOLINA GREET'S MAYOR

Distinguished Italian Visitors Will Receive Hospitality of City's People.

With booming of cannon and the sonorous salute of 21 heavy charges of dynamite the Italian cruiser Etruria dropped anchor off Bridgeport harbor late this afternoon. The Etruria comes to this city, representing the Italian government, at the invitation of the Italian Colonial Committee. The officers and crew of the cruiser will be treated with distinguished honors during their stay here. The people of Bridgeport will have an opportunity to visit both the Etruria and the Vermont, the fourth largest battleship in the fleet of the United States, and the holder of the trophy pennant for the best naval target shooting, which is expected to arrive in a few hours. The first duty paid by Commander Count M. Casolina, after the Etruria dropped her anchor, was to come ashore to pay his respects to Mayor Henry Lee, the official head of the city, as is the custom in such cases. The gallant commander was already familiar with Bridgeport to some extent, by reason of the fact that his quest during the day, and during the night, was Harbor Master Charles H. Morris, with whom he exchanged interesting views.

At three o'clock the members of the Colonial Committee, with city officials, honorary presidents, and representatives of the press, left on the Rosedale, to meet the Etruria, and greet her officers and people.
The Etruria left New Haven, this afternoon. Her officers have been the recipients of much hospitality at the hands of the New Haven people, which concluded with a brilliant testimonial reception, given in Heublein's Hall, in that city, last night.
The members of the Colonial Committee are:
James V. Massey, president; Luigi Napolitano, vice-president; Leonardo Benefico, treasurer; Raffaele Borino, secretary; and Luigi Ricciardi, James H. Passerini, S. Vecchiene, Sebastiano Scalo, Alfred Grasso, Pellegrino Rial, Cosimo Salvagni, Angelo Rid, A. M. Laconte, Fortunato Rodoli.

MRS. HARRIMAN RICHEST WOMAN IN THE WORLD

To be Guided in Management of Vast Estate by President Peabody of Mutual Life Insurance Company and Ex-Judge Lovett.

List Given of Those Who are Supposed to be Wealthiest Women in America -- Hetty Green With Her Pile of $100,000,000 Tops Mrs. Russell Sage.

(Special from United Press.)
New York, Sept. 17.—It was declared today in Wall Street circles that Mrs. Mary W. Harriman, who, by the will of her late husband, Edward H. Harriman, becomes the richest woman in the world, will be guided in her management of her vast estate by Charles A. Peabody, president of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, formerly Harriman's personal attorney, and ex-Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the executive committee of the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific and Harriman's closest confidant in business affairs.
The remarkable will of the financier, containing less than 100 words, is still the topic of conversation in financial circles.
The fact that no mention is made of the Harriman children, five in number, in the will, is taken as an indication that Harriman, some time before his death, created a trust fund for each of them, amounting to several million dollars in securities, to be held by trustees until each of the children becomes of a proper age to handle so great a fortune.
This assertion, however, is unconfirmed, and in some quarters it is still asserted that Harriman gave his entire estate to his wife and lets her divide it among the children at her death, as she sees fit.
It is believed that Mrs. Harriman will continue the work on Arden House, which Harriman wished to make the most magnificent estate in America.
Here is a list of the women who are supposed to be the richest in America: Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr., inherited $2,000,000 and annuity of $300,000 a year from husband's estate.
